'Peace can't be piecemeal'

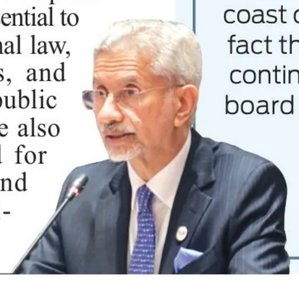
At BRICS meet, India flags concerns over West Asia crisis, unilateral sanctions; urges BRICS nations to develop 'practical ways' to navigate geopolitical upheavals

NEW DELHI

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Thursday said that "peace cannot be piecemeal" and flagged grave concerns over the West Asia crisis and its impact on energy supplies and maritime stability in the Strait of Hormuz.

In his address at the opening day of a two-day BRICS conclave here, Jaishankar asserted, without naming specific nations, that respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity must anchor international relations, maintaining that "dialogue and diplomacy" offer the only sustainable path to conflict resolution. India also urged BRICS nations to develop "practical ways" to navigate geopolitical upheavals as well as "unilateral coercive" sanctions.

He said India stands ready to contribute constructively towards de-escalation efforts and to support initiatives aimed at restoring stability while noting that "peace cannot be piecemeal" and "it is essential to uphold international law, protect civilians, and avoid targeting public infrastructure." He also strongly pitched for ensuring safe and unimpeded maritime flows.



Indian-flagged ship attacked off Oman coast: MEA

The Ministry of External Affairs said that an Indian-flagged commercial vessel came under attack off the coast of Oman on Thursday. All crew members are safe. Deeming the attack as "unacceptable", it said at the moment it is not known who carried out the attack. "The attack on an Indian-flagged ship off the coast of Oman is unacceptable and we deplore the fact that commercial shipping and civilian mariners continue to be targeted," it said. "All Indian crew on board are safe and we thank the Omani authorities for rescuing them," it said. India reiterates that targeting commercial shipping and endangering innocent crew members should be avoided, MEA added.

NEET paper leak: 2 more arrested

NEW DELHI

The CBI has made two further arrests in connection with the NEET-UG 2026 question paper leak case. The accused have been identified as Dhananjay Lokhanda and Manisha Waghmare. Lokhanda was arrested from Ahilyanagar while Waghmare was nabbed from Pune.

The agency also carried out searches at 14 different locations across India during the past 24 hours as part of its ongoing investigation.

Earlier, five individuals were arrested in the case on Wednesday. Among them, three were taken into custody from Jaipur, one from Gurugram, and one from Nashik.

5 accused sent to CBI remand

They have been identified as Yash Yadav, Mangilal Khatik alias Mangilal Biwal, Vikash Biwal, Shubham Khainwar and Dinesh Biwal.

The Rouse Avenue Court in Delhi has sent all five accused to a seven-day CBI remand. Special CBI judge Ajay Gupta passed the order. Officials said several other individuals are still being questioned as part of the ongoing inquiry. The probe is continuing, with CBI officials stating that all possible leads are being followed.

K'taka Guv halves convoy size

BENGALURU

Responding to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's call for austerity, Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot on Thursday reduced his official convoy to the minimum required strength.

In an X post, Lok Bhavan said the decision was taken in line with the PM's appeal to conserve fuel and cut foreign exchange spending amid West Asia crisis. The post read, "Hon'ble Governor of Karnataka Shri Thaawarchand Gehlot has reduced his convoy to the minimum required strength, following Hon'ble Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi Ji's appeal."

'No saffron shawls in schools'

MYSURU

Day after the Congress government revoked a controversial ban on the hijab (head scarf) in government schools, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Thursday clarified that saffron shawls would not be allowed in educational institutions under the state government's order on religious symbols.

He said that practices already in existence such as hijab, turbans, rudraksha beads and sacred threads (Janeu) would continue to be permitted.

Speaking to reporters in Mysuru, he clarified that those religious attire which are in practice will be allowed.

The government on Wednesday passed an order allowing students to wear hijab, sacred thread, Shivadhara, Rudraksha in schools. The order scrapped the BJP government's 2022 order, banning Hijab in government schools following the Hijab versus saffron shawl controversy.

SIR in K'taka from May 30

NEW DELHI

Karnataka and 18 other states and UTs will undergo Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in the third phase in a staggered manner starting on May 30 and culminating with the publication of the final voter list between September and December.

The process will be undertaken in different states on different dates. For Karnataka, the qualifying date of SIR has been fixed on October 1. While the preparation, training and printing of enumeration forms will be undertaken between June 20 and 29, the house to house visits by booth level officers will be between June 30 and July 29. The publication of draft electoral rolls has been fixed for August 5 while people can file claims/objections between August 5 and September 4. Notices will be issued to dispose of claims/objections between September August 5 to October 3. The final roll will be out on October 7.

VD Satheesan wins Kerala CM race

NEW DELHI

After intense internal discussions and days of political suspense, the Congress has finally annouced VD Satheesan as Kerala's next chief minister.

Satheesan's public support and the leadership skills that he demonstrated while in opposition in the state have reportedly played a crucial role in this selection.

Congress' Kerala in-charge Deepa Dasmunsi announced the CM selection a press meet here, soon after Leader of Opposition in Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi concluded his nearly two-and-half-hour-meeting with Venugopal, who is also General Secretary (Organisation).

While Venugopal was claiming the support of majority of MLAs and Chennithala highlighted his seniority, what turned the tables for Satheesan was the outpouring of public support after the results, as well as the endorsement of allies, especially the IUML.

Pinarayi elected LoP

Former CM Pinarayi Vijayan will be the new Opposition leader in Kerala. CPM state committee meeting held on Thursday took the decision unanimously, a statement from party state secretary M V Govindan said. After the election rout for the LDF under Vijayan's leadership, there was a strong demand for a leadership change.

Siddaramaiah visit the under construction new bus terminal site

MYSURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah Thursday inspected the construction works of the new bus terminal being built at Bannimantap in Mysuru at a cost of ₹129 crore.

The basement has been designed primarily for vehicle parking, with facilities to accommodate 4,000 two-wheelers and 200 cars simultaneously.

Ground Floor (18,370 sq. m): The ground floor will serve as the main bus terminal area and will include passenger arrival and departure gates, ticket booking counters, as well as landscaped gardens and greenery.

First Floor (8,478 sq. m): This floor has been earmarked entirely for staff facilities, including rest rooms, dormitories, and office spaces.

MODERN FACILITIES

A wide range of modern amenities are being installed for passengers: A total of 75 bus bays have been planned, with dedicated space for parking 35 buses at a time.

- Separate rest rooms for women and spacious seating arrangements for general passengers will be provided.
- The terminal will have six toilet blocks each for men and women, along with separate toilets for persons with disabilities and transgender individuals.
- Four lifts and two escalators will be installed.
- A library, food court, and enquiry centres for continuous passenger assistance will also function within the premises.
- Covered roofing arrangements are being made across the terminal to protect passengers from heat and rain.
- Dedicated rooms and office spaces for station management officials are also being created for efficient administration.
- Airport-Style Waiting Halls: High-quality air-conditioned waiting halls are being constructed for passenger comfort. Designed on the model of airport lounges, these facilities aim to provide a comfortable experience for long-distance travellers.
- Additionally, a large general waiting hall and free mobile charging points will also be available.
- CCTV cameras and public announcement systems will be installed throughout the terminal.
- A police outpost and security office will be established to prevent any untoward incidents.
- An emergency health check-up centre and a dedicated fire control room will also be set up.
- A mother-and-child care centre, Separate rest rooms for women, dedicated ramps for persons with disabilities, and special tactile guidance pathways for the visually impaired.
- Digi-lockers and luggage rooms for safe storage, Traditional-style commercial shops, ATM facilities, Parcel/courier services, and Postal services under one roof.
- As part of eco-friendly initiatives, electric two-wheeler charging points are also being installed.

CM reviews progress of UG power cable project

MYSURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Thursday inspected the ongoing works to convert existing 11 KV overhead power lines into underground cables within Mysuru city limits (inside the Ring Road area), a project being implemented by Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation Limited (CESC).

The Chief Minister reviewed the progress of the underground cable installation works being carried out in Srirampura, Mysuru, and obtained detailed information about the project from CESC officials.

During the inspection, CESC Mysuru Circle Superintending Engineer Sunil Kumar briefed the Chief Minister on the status of the works underway across the city.

He said the project is being implemented at a total cost of ₹588.24 crore. Existing 11 KV overhead electricity lines spread across 871.09 km within Mysuru city limits are being converted into underground cable networks. The project includes installation of 474 RMUs (Ring Main Units) and 11 CSS units. The works have been entrusted to four different contractors. Underground cable installation has already been completed across 227.12 km, 160 RMUs have been installed, and The project has achieved 26.07% progress so far. A time period of two years has been fixed for completion of the project, and necessary steps have been taken to ensure timely completion, he added.

Benefits of the Project

The underground cabling project is expected to provide several benefits, including:

greater reliability in power supply, reduced maintenance costs, fewer power interruptions, improved city aesthetics, reduced tree cutting, longer infrastructure lifespan, fewer electrical accidents, and enhanced efficiency of the power distribution system.

MYSURU RAIN FURY

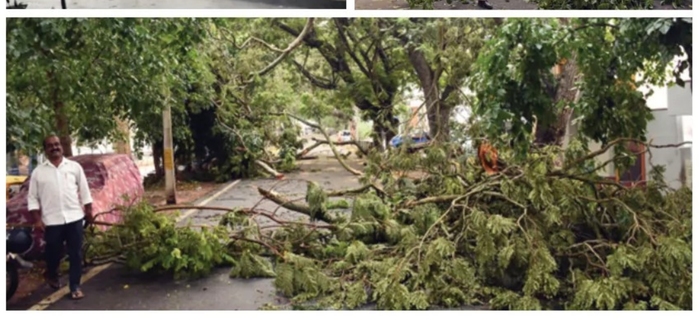
Gusty winds uproot trees, trigger massive power outage

MYSURU

A brief spell of rain that lashed several parts of Mysuru on Thursday afternoon brought much-needed relief to residents who had been reeling under intense summer heat for the past two to three weeks.

However, the sudden pre-monsoon shower, accompanied by strong gusty winds, quickly turned into a scene of disruption and civic distress across the city.

The rain began around 3 pm and lasted barely 10 to 15 minutes, but the impact it left behind was significant. Several trees were uprooted in different localities, severely affecting power supply and traffic movement. According to preliminary reports, nearly nine trees were uprooted in Vidyaranyapuram alone, while another major tree collapse was reported in Ashokapuram.



Falling branches and uprooted trees crashed onto live electric lines, triggering a massive power outage in many parts of the city. Residents across several neighbourhoods were left without electricity for hours as damaged power lines and poles disrupted supply. Fortunately, despite the widespread damage, no injuries or casualties were reported in any of the tree-fall incidents.

Questions over preparedness

The sudden chaos has raised serious questions about the preparedness of the power utility authorities to handle pre-monsoon showers. Citizens expressed disappointment over what they described as a lack of preventive measures by the Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC) and the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC).

Usually, dry tree branches and those dangerously hanging close to live electric wires are trimmed well before the monsoon season begins. However, residents alleged that such precautionary works had not been carried out this time, resulting in trees collapsing "like a pack of cards" after just a brief spell of rain and wind.

The communication failure further added to public frustration. Residents attempting to contact CESC officials found all mobile numbers continuously busy for nearly two to three hours. Citizens were unable to report tree falls, snapped power lines, or electricity failures in their localities.

Adding to the anger was the complete absence of official updates regarding the extent of damage or the expected time for restoration of power supply. No senior CESC officer was available to brief the media or reassure anxious residents.

Meanwhile, the short burst of rain also exposed the poor maintenance of underground drainage systems in several areas. Many manholes overflowed as clogged drainage lines failed to carry rainwater efficiently. Garbage dumped into open drains blocked the free flow of water, causing sewage to spill onto roads and mix with rainwater, creating unhygienic conditions and inconvenience for commuters.

What began as a welcome relief from scorching heat thus ended in widespread inconvenience, exposing the city's fragile preparedness ahead of the monsoon season.

CM inspects Maharani College hostel and science block devt Works

MYSURU

The Chief Minister inspected the ongoing construction works of the hostel buildings and science college block at Maharani Women's Science and Arts College on Thursday.

Maharani College was established in 1917 by the then Maharani Kempananjammani Vani Vilasa Sannidhana. The institution has played a crucial role in providing higher education opportunities to women, especially those from rural and socially disadvantaged backgrounds.

Students from remote regions across Karnataka depend on this institution for their education. However, the existing infrastructure, particularly hostel facilities, has not been sufficient to meet the growing demand. In addition, parts of the heritage college building had become dilapidated, and the north-western portion of the structure collapsed on October 21, 2022.

In this backdrop, the state government showed special interest and launched a comprehensive development project worth ₹170 crore for upgrading the college and hostel facilities. They have taken up renovation and academic Infrastructure.

Renovation of the existing heritage building and library located in front of the Maharani Science College. Construction of seminar hall blocks designed in harmony with the heritage façade. Four seminar halls with a seating capacity of 120 students each. A new G+3 academic block at the rear side of the campus featuring: 20 classrooms with a capacity of 60 students each, 10 laboratories accommodating 30 students each, and 4 multipurpose halls with a capacity of 100 students each. Two separate hostel blocks are being constructed to provide accommodation for a total of 1,400 students: 700 students from the Science stream, and 700 students from the Arts stream.

The new hostel complex is being built across four towers with five floors each. It will contain: 306 rooms in the main hostel blocks, and 48 rooms in a separate PG hostel block, bringing the total to 354 rooms. Dining halls with a seating capacity of 500 people, along with modern kitchen facilities, are also being constructed.

‘Auto’ Mahesh launches free drinking water service

MYSURU

A free drinking water service initiative launched by social worker “Auto” Mahesh received appreciation from local residents and community leaders during an inauguration programme held at Agrahara Circle in Mysuru on Thursday.

The drinking water facility, set up under a service committee initiative, was inaugurated by Sri Immadi Gurulingaswamiji of the Kuderu Mutt, in the presence of local residents, women’s groups and members of various organisations.

Speaking on the occasion, community leaders lauded Mahesh for taking up meaningful public service activities without seeking publicity.

They said the existing water tank in the locality had become damaged, causing inconvenience to the public, especially during the ongoing summer heat. The newly arranged drinking water facility is expected to benefit commuters and residents in the area where large numbers of people frequently gather.

Speakers noted that Mahesh has been actively involved in several civic and social service activities over the last few months. Apart from cleanliness drives in different parts of the city, he had also undertaken service activities near cremation grounds and was now focusing on providing drinking water to the public. “Water is more important than food. Without water there is no life,” one of the speakers remarked, stressing the importance of making drinking water easily accessible during the scorching summer.

The organisers said they were prepared to extend further support if needed, including arranging temporary storage tanks and ensuring regular water supply through voluntary contributions and community participation.

Another speaker observed that many people arriving by bus immediately search for drinking water and that even a single glass of water could provide relief and save lives during extreme heat conditions. He recalled an incident where two passengers suffering from dehydration were provided water, which they reportedly described as being as precious as “panchamrita.”

The speakers urged citizens, elected representatives and organisations across Mysuru to replicate such service-oriented initiatives in other localities instead of limiting activities to publicity-oriented programmes.

Several local residents and members of Basava Sangha, including Basava Chandrashekar, Venkatayya Koli, Venkatesh and Basappa, were present during the programme.

Books on Operation Sindoor and Indus Water Treaty released

MYSURU

Two books authored by Dr. D.C. Nanjunda — “Operation Sindoor” and “Indus Water Treaty – Depth and Breadth” — were released at a programme organised at the Mysuru District Journalists’ Association Hall by the Centre for Integrated Development and Research.

The books were released by advocate and BJP leader Dr. Hema Nandish.

Speaking on the occasion, she said although information on these subjects is available on social media, it often lacks emotional depth and clarity. She described the books as valuable contributions to literature.

Dr Hema said the books explain the strong decisions and actions taken by the government led by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in safeguarding national integrity and responding to incidents that insulted the dignity of women and the nation. The book on Operation Sindoor also details the terrorist attack in Jammu and Kashmir in which around 26 people were killed, along with comprehensive information about the operation itself. The book on the Indus Water Treaty contains valuable insights into the historic agreement, she added.

Author Dr. D.C. Nanjunda, Meenakshi Shrisha, Mantelingachar and others were present.

Writer Lakshmi, artist Sudha presented with Matha Vijayakumari award

MYSURU

Writer Lakshmi Pelakanda and scholar-musician M.R. Sudha were presented the Matha Vijayakumari V. Rao Award during the World Mother’s Day celebrations organised by the Vasudev Maharaj Foundation at the Mysore District Journalists’ Association Hall in Mysuru on Thursday.

Presenting the award, Sanskrit scholar Dr. K. Leela Prakash said that God created mothers because he could not be present everywhere. A mother is not ordinary; she is the fortune of the world. She appreciated the Foundation for honouring accomplished women by celebrating motherhood.

Chief Administrative Officer of Yoganarasimha Temple N. Srinivasan appealed to the government to officially celebrate Mother’s Day. Kannada Sahitya Parishat district president Maddikere Gopal, Alliance Institution immediate past governor S. Venkatesh, music teacher M.V. Anita and Lakshminarasimhaswamy Temple CEO K.R. Yoganarasimhan were present.

KSRTC employees to launch indefinite stir from May 20

MYSURU

Employees of the State transport corporations will launch an indefinite strike from May 20 alleging government negligence in fulfilling their demands, including payment of pending dues and salary revision.

Speaking to reporters on behalf of the Joint Action Committee of Labour Organisations of State Road Transport Corporations, transport employees federation office-bearer B. Jayadevaraje Urs said around 1.15 lakh employees from various transport corporations across Karnataka would participate in the stay-at-home strike. Nearly 6,000 employees from the Mysuru division are expected to join.

He warned that if the government fails to hold talks and resolve the issues before May 20, buses of the transport corporations would not operate from that day onward.

The employees are demanding a 25 per cent increase in basic pay with retrospective effect from January 1, 2024, for a four-year period, enhancement of bata and other allowances, and payment of pending arrears amounting to ₹1,272 crore in a single installment.

Other office-bearers and labour leaders including D.A. Vijayabhaskar, Mallayya and Vijaykumar were present.

Skills are tomorrow’s capital: MCCI President Lingaraju

MYSURU

In today’s competitive world, practical skills — not just a degree — will become the real capital for the future economic security of women students, said Dr. Lingaraju K.B., President of the Mysore Chamber of Commerce.

Delivering a special lecture on ‘Entrepreneurship Development’ and the certificate distribution programme for skill development training, jointly organised by the IQAC, M.Com Postgraduate Commerce Department and Placement Cell at Maharani Women's Commerce and Management College here on Thursday, he said Today, the industrial sector is not merely looking for graduates; it needs skilled young talent. They have already begun acquiring those skills, and that places you one step ahead of others.

He observed that the time has come for women to become self-reliant by starting small-scale enterprises. The Chamber of Commerce will always stand with young entrepreneurs. If any of them wish to start a startup venture, they are ready to provide guidance and market connectivity. “Instead of waiting for jobs, develop the courage to create jobs. Many large companies today began as small shops and later provided employment to thousands. Your idea may be small, but what matters is the determination to turn it into reality,” he added.

Praising Maharani College as a model institution in women’s education in the state, he suggested that more such skill-oriented programmes should be organised regularly.

Other Highlights of the Programme

During the programme, Dr. Gangadhara Vaivi, faculty member of ATI, delivered a special lecture on ‘Entrepreneurship Development for Students.’

Staging of one-man play on Poet Madhura Chenna in Mysuru on May 16

MYSURU

A one-man play titled “Madhura Chenn – Anusandhana with an Anubhavi”, written and directed by Ganesh Aminagad, will be staged at Kiru Rangamandira in the city on May 16 at 6.30 pm under the banner of Kavita Kala Tanda.

Addressing reporters, Aminagad said the play has been presented by Jagadeva Galagali with music direction by B.R. Banasode. He said Madhura Chenn was a prominent thinker and poet of the last century who shared close association with eminent literary personalities including Bendre.

The one-hour play introduces the poet’s life and achievements to younger generations while reminding senior audiences of his literary contributions. Aminagad said the play has already won appreciation across the State and will have its first performance in Mysuru. Mysuru Regional Commissioner Nitish Patil will inaugurate the programme.

Kannada Sahitya Parishat district president Maddikere Gopal and Kannada Sahitya Kalakoota founder-president M. Chandrashekhar were present.

Hundreds of devotees participated in the colourful procession. The crackers were lit and the songs were sung by them.

“Youth must read great Kannada writers to truly understand them”

MYSURU

Retired professor Dr. T.V. Venkatachala Shastry said that today’s younger generation may have heard about eminent Kannada litterateurs such as Masti Venkatesha Iyengar and D.V. Gundappa, but have not made efforts to truly understand their works and contributions. Reading their literature is essential to appreciating their legacy.

He was speaking after inaugurating the KCS Kavya Kutuhala seminar organised on Wednesday at the B.M. Sri Auditorium of the Institute of Kannada Studies, Manasagangotri, in association with the Muddurama Balaga.

Dignitaries inaugurated the KCS Kavya Kutuhala seminar organised on Wednesday at the B.M. Sri Auditorium of the Institute of Kannada Studies, Manasagangotri, Mysuru, in association with Muddurama Balaga.

Referring to Shivappa, he said having the opportunity to know him was itself a great fortune. He recalled how Shivappa had courageously invited DVG to deliver an endowment lecture, later publishing the lecture as well. He had similarly invited literary stalwarts including Masti and V. Seetharamayya. Such opportunities, he said, are not available to everyone.

Dr. Shastry noted that Shivappa maintained close friendships and associations with several senior writers and artists, which itself was remarkable. He added that Shivappa’s literary contributions, including poems, critical essays and collections of aphorisms, were immensely rich and valuable.

Speaking about literary criticism, he said scholar Nagannna, while analysing Kumaravyasa’s works, had observed that several cantos and verses could have been omitted or modified. Though such criticism could be justified, Dr. Shastry remarked that refinement itself is a virtue.

He further said that writer Shivappa had compiled nearly 30,000 Muddurama Choupadis, and the only comparable work in Kannada literature was DVG’s renowned “Mankuthimmana Kagga.” He added that this tradition of aphoristic writing later inspired many others. Linguist Biligiri, poet laureate Kuvempu, historian Dinkar Desai and scholar T.N. Srikantaiah had all admired the beauty and depth of such compositions.

HTM former president N. Ramanuja, Director of the Kuvempu Institute of Kannada Studies Dr. N.K. Lolakshi, Muddurama Pratishthana vice-president Dr. Neelagiri Talawar, orator Prof. M. Krishnegowda and others were present at the programme.

LET CHILDHOOD BLOOM, NOT BRIDES

Say No to Child Marriage — Save Dreams, Secure Futures

Childhood is meant to be a time of laughter, learning, friendship, and endless dreams. Every child deserves the freedom to study, play, and build a bright future. Sadly, for many children, especially girls, these precious years are cut short by the cruel practice of child marriage. Instead of enjoying their childhood, they are forced into adult responsibilities before they are emotionally, physically, or mentally ready.

Child marriage — marrying before the legal age of 18 for girls and 21 for boys in India — is not just a social issue; it is a violation of basic human rights. It steals education, confidence, opportunities, and freedom from children. Young girls who should be sitting in classrooms are often pushed into managing households and facing early motherhood.

The consequences of child marriage are heartbreaking. Many children are forced to drop out of school, ending their dreams of becoming doctors, teachers, engineers, or leaders. Early pregnancies bring serious health risks for both mother and baby. Emotionally too, these children suffer from stress, fear, loneliness, and sometimes abuse. Over time, child marriage increases poverty, gender inequality, and lack of empowerment in society.

Even today, this harmful practice continues because of poverty, lack of awareness, social pressure, and outdated beliefs. Some families think early marriage protects girls or reduces financial burden. But in reality, it only traps families in a cycle of struggle and lost opportunities.

How Can We Stop Child Marriage?

Promote Education for Every Child: Education empowers children with confidence, knowledge, and independence.

Strict Enforcement of Laws: Authorities must take immediate action against illegal child marriages.

Spread Awareness: Campaigns in schools, villages, and media can change harmful mindsets.

Empower Girls and Boys: Skill development and leadership opportunities help children make informed choices.

Involve Parents and Communities: Families, teachers, and community leaders must work together to protect children.

Provide Financial Support: Scholarships and livelihood programs can reduce economic pressure on poor families.

Transparency ordered in mining housing beneficiary selection

Dr. Bijjoor prioritised housing for landless families, directing nearby land identification and full infrastructure development in new layouts

CHITRADURGA

Karnataka Mining Environment Revitalization Corporation Managing Director Dr. Sanjay S. Bijjoor has directed officials to maintain complete transparency while selecting beneficiaries for housing projects in mining affected areas of Chitradurga district.

He spoke during a progress review meeting held at the District Collector's office on Thursday under the Comprehensive Environmental Plan for Mining Impact Zone project. He instructed gram panchayat development officers to ensure that only genuine and deserving families receive housing benefits without any political or external pressure.

Dr. Bijjoor said the government is giving priority to landless and homeless families while implementing housing schemes. He instructed officials to quickly identify suitable land within two kilometers of villages and submit lay out proposals for approval. He also stressed that newly developed housing layouts must include roads, drinking water, streetlights, electrification, health centers, and anganwadi facilities. He warned officials not to select land near burial grounds, saying people are unwilling to live in such places. He also instructed authorities to ensure proper road connectivity between new colonies and the main villages.The Managing Director said officers from various departments are responsible for implementing projects under the corporation scheme and warned against delays or negligence. He said several health related programmes are being introduced in mining affected areas, including nutrition support for tuberculosis patients and care programmes for newborn babies.

During the meeting, Zilla Panchayat CEO Dr. Akash presented plans to restore environmental balance in the district through scientific measures. He said groundwater levels in the district are falling rapidly and immediate steps are needed to improve water recharge systems. Officials proposed installing water recharge systems and solar panels in government schools. Dr. Akash said nearly 300 schools would be covered in the first phase, and the electricity generated would be supplied to the state power grid.

Authorities assured quality work and timely completion of the development project for public benefit in the area.

Mandya ensures quality seeds fertilizers for monsoon season

MANDYA

Deputy Commissioner Dr. Kumar has instructed officials to ensure proper supply of quality seeds and fertilizers for farmers during the 2026-27 monsoon season in Mandya district.

Speaking at a review meeting held at the District Collector's office on Wednesday, he said farmers have already started preparations for sowing activities and departments must act quickly to avoid shortages during the rainy season.

Dr. Kumar directed agriculture officials to maintain enough stock of fertilizers and sowing seeds across the district. He also warned officials to prevent the sale of poor quality seeds and fertilizers to farmers.

He said fertilizer shops must clearly display stock details and price lists. Fertilizer inspectors were instructed to regularly visit shops under their jurisdiction to check stock availability and ensure there is no artificial shortage.

The Deputy Commissioner emphasized distribution of quality seeds and urged promoting green manure use to improve soil health and reduce dependence on chemical fertilizers

The Deputy Commissioner stressed that only quality seeds should be distributed to farmers. He also advised officials to encourage farmers to use green manure as an alternative to chemical fertilizers to improve soil health and reduce excessive fertilizer use.

Officials were asked to ensure timely supply of all agricultural inputs, including pesticides, seeds and fertilizers, before the peak sowing period begins.

During the meeting, Dr. Kumar said farmers must now have a valid Farmer ID, also called FID, to receive government benefits and purchase fertilizers. Farmers have been asked to visit nearby Raitha Sampark Kendras to create a new ID or link their land survey numbers to existing IDs.

He said the Farmer ID is necessary for receiving benefits under schemes such as PM-KISAN, drought relief assistance, fertilizer subsidies and seed distribution programmes. Agriculture officials were instructed to conduct awareness campaigns so that all farmers understand the importance of registration.

The Deputy Commissioner also directed officials to closely monitor any shortage of fertilizers and seeds during the monsoon season and take immediate action if problems arise.

He further instructed departments to create awareness about crop insurance schemes under the Pradhan Mantri Fasal Bima Yojana. Eligible farmers should be informed and encouraged to apply within the prescribed deadline to protect their crops against losses caused by natural disasters and weather changes.

Joint Director of Agriculture Ashok, Joint Director of Horticulture Roopshree, Deputy Director of Animal Husbandry Shivalingaiah, agriculture officials, fertilizer suppliers and seed distributors attended the meeting and discussed preparations for smooth farming activities during the coming monsoon season in the district.

Swift police action cracks salty powder heist

CHIKKABALLAPURA

Gauribidanur police arrested three accused within three hours after a robbery involving seven and a half lakh rupees on Thursday. Police also recovered the entire stolen amount from the accused during the operation.

According to police, Shivashankar Aradhya of Vinayak Nagar had planned to buy a yellow board car after discussions with his distant relative Yashwant Aradhya, who promised profitable travel business opportunities. Trusting him, Shivashankar carried money collected from his house and mortgage funds for the vehicle purchase.

While travelling, two men on a bike approached him pretending to ask for an address. They suddenly threw salty powder into his eyes and snatched a bag containing seven and a half lakh rupees before escaping. When Shivashankar shouted for help, local residents tried to stop the thieves, but they threatened people and fled from the spot. Police became suspicious after Yashwant allegedly failed to react during the incident. During questioning, he reportedly confessed to planning the robbery with the other accused.

DISTRICT CLIMATE IMPLEMENTATION

Karnataka Climate Action Training Held in Madikeri

MADIKERI

A training workshop on the Karnataka State Climate Change Action Plan (KSAPCC) was held in Madikeri on Thursday to strengthen district-level implementation of climate goals across the state.

The programme was organized by the Environmental Management and Policy Research Institute (EMPRI), an autonomous body under the Department of Forest, Environment and Ecology, Government of Karnataka. Officials said the state action plan was prepared as per government direction and received approval from the Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change in 2024.

Under the plan, departments have been assigned performance targets and key indicators for the period 2025 to 2030. Authorities said training and capacity building of district officials is essential for successful implementation of these goals.

EMPRI, in collaboration with the Karnataka State Council of Science and Technology (KSCST), has already conducted similar training programmes in 22 districts during 2025–26. The initiative is now being expanded to all 31 districts in 2026–27.

The Madikeri workshop was held at the Zilla Panchayat Hall under the chairmanship of Kodagu Zilla Panchayat Chief Executive Officer Anand Prakash Meena. Chief Planning Officer Abdul Nabi and Executive Engineer Ramachandra attended as special guests.

The programme was inaugurated by lighting a ceremonial lamp and watering a plant by experts from EMPRI and the Advanced Centre for Integrated Water Resources Management (ACIWRM), Bengaluru.

Speaking on the occasion, CEO Anand Prakash Meena said climate change has multiple causes and regular awareness and data-based planning is essential to address it. He stressed that officials should understand and implement key performance indicators effectively and make full use of the training programme.

Experts Dr. Shruti from EMPRI and Dr. Shashikumar, water resources specialist from ACIWRM, delivered technical sessions on the climate action plan. They explained policy frameworks, departmental responsibilities, climate pollutants, and district-level climate data.

Dr. Shashikumar also highlighted the importance of water resource management in climate adaptation strategies. Officials discussed how departments can coordinate better for sustainable water use.

'Judicial probe must in custodial death, rape cases'

Ranchi

The Jharkhand High Court on Thursday delivered a significant ruling on a public interest litigation on custodial deaths and rape cases in the state, mandating that a judicial inquiry will now be compulsory in every such instance. A division bench of Chief Justice M.S. Sonak and Justice Rajesh Shankar directed that any death or rape occurring in police custody or jail custody must be subjected to a judicial inquiry without exception. The court ruled that such inquiries are mandatory under Section 196(2) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita and the corresponding provision contained in Section 176(1A) of the erstwhile Criminal Procedure Code (CrPC).

Sunil Mittal signals Bharti succession plan

New Delhi

Airtel Chairman and Managing Director Sunil Bharti Mittal on Thursday said that he plans to hand over the reins of the telecom major to the next generation in the next ten years. I wish to hand over the reins to the next generation in the next 10 years, Mittal said in the company's concall. Mittal was re-appointed as Chairman of Bharti Airtel for another five-year term on Wednesday, with effect from October 1, 2026. The company's board also approved the re-appointment of Nisaba Godrej as an Independent Director for a second term of five years, effective August 4 this year. The Airtel CMD said that he was not happy with the Q4 financial results of Airtel and would be working to step up the Average Revenue Per User (ARPU) of the telecom major.

Guj govt prioritises workers' welfare, health security

'The industrial growth and employment generation were closely linked to the welfare and health of workers'

GANDHINAGAR

The Gujarat government has reaffirmed its commitment to workers' welfare, healthcare access and social security during the 93rd Regional Council Meeting of the Employees' State Insurance Corporation (ESIC) held in Gandhinagar on Thursday.

The meeting was jointly chaired by Bavaliya and State Minister Kantilal Amrutiya and focused on the implementation of the Employees' State Insurance Scheme, healthcare services for insured workers and several labour welfare-related administrative and medical issues.

Addressing members of the ESIC Board, Bavaliya stressed that industrial growth and employment generation were closely linked to the welfare and health of workers. He said workers formed the foundation of Gujarat's development and therefore deserved strong social security protections and quality healthcare facilities.

Providing adequate healthcare facilities, medical services and social security to workers who form the foundation of the state's development is the priority of the state government, the minister said during the meeting.

Bavaliya also highlighted the broader development agenda being pursued under Prime Minister Narendra Modi at the national level and Chief Minister Bhupendra Patel in Gujarat. He said the state government had implemented several welfare programmes aimed at providing workers with social security, economic empowerment and healthcare protection.

The minister stated that the new Labour Codes and Social Security Code introduced by the Union Ministry of Labour and Employment would create a more integrated and efficient social protection framework for workers in both organised and unorganised sectors. According to him, the reforms would help simplify access to benefits and improve labour welfare systems across the country.

Bavaliya also spoke about the growing use of digital platforms in labour administration. He said initiatives such as the e-Shram portal had improved worker registration processes and made access to welfare schemes easier, more transparent and more efficient for labourers across different sectors.

During the meeting, the minister shared details of ESIC's annual health screening initiative launched on May 7. Under the programme, insured workers aged 40 years and above will receive free annual medical check-ups across the country. Bavaliya said the initiative would support early detection and timely treatment of serious diseases.

He further highlighted the recently inaugurated Model Hospital in the Bapunagar area of Ahmedabad, describing it as a major step towards strengthening healthcare infrastructure for workers in Gujarat.

The meeting also included discussions on improving healthcare quality under the ESI scheme, ensuring timely treatment for insured workers, introducing modern medical equipment in hospitals and dispensaries, and accelerating recruitment for vacant medical and administrative posts.

BJP questions Rahul's foreign visits, funding sources

NEW DELHI

The Bharatiya Janata Party on Thursday launched a fresh attack on Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi over his foreign travels during the past two decades.

Senior BJP leaders raised concerns over the frequency of Rahul Gandhi's overseas trips and alleged that the Congress leader owed an explanation to the public regarding the financial arrangements linked to those visits.

The party said questions remained unanswered about who funded several of Gandhi's international travels and whether there was complete transparency regarding the expenses involved.

The BJP's criticism comes amid intensifying political exchanges between the ruling party and the opposition ahead of major electoral battles in several states and preparations for future national political campaigns. Party leaders accused Gandhi of repeatedly travelling abroad while key political developments and parliamentary sessions were taking place in India.

According to BJP representatives, the Congress leader had undertaken numerous visits to foreign countries over the last 20 years, including both personal and political engagements. The party alleged that the details regarding accommodation, transportation and sponsorship for many of these trips had not been clearly disclosed in the public domain.

The BJP further claimed that citizens had the right to know the money trail behind such extensive foreign travel by a senior political leader holding a constitutional position as Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha. The party also questioned whether any foreign entities or undisclosed organisations had supported the visits financially.

The party alleged that the details regarding accommodation, transportation and sponsorship for many of these trips had not been clearly disclosed in the public domain

While addressing the issue, BJP leaders described Gandhi's travel pattern as luxurious globe-trotting and argued that transparency was essential in public life, especially for individuals occupying important political positions. The party demanded that Gandhi or the Congress leadership clarify the source of funding and provide detailed explanations regarding the trips.

The Congress party had not immediately issued a detailed response to the allegations at the time of reporting. However, Congress leaders in the past have defended Rahul Gandhi's international visits, stating that several of them involved academic events, meetings with the Indian diaspora, political interactions and personal engagements.

Political observers believe the BJP's remarks are part of a broader strategy to challenge Gandhi's public image and portray him as disconnected from domestic issues. The renewed criticism is expected to further intensify political tensions between the ruling alliance and the opposition in the coming weeks.

PRATEEK YADAV CREMATED AS FAMILY BIDS EMOTIONAL FAREWELL

LUCKNOW

The last rites of Prateek Yadav were performed at Baikunth Dham on Thursday in the presence of grieving family members, relatives, supporters and senior political leaders.

The funeral ceremony took place at Baikunth Dham cremation ground in Lucknow's Bhaisakund area, where veteran journalist Arvind Bisht performed the final rites and lit the funeral pyre.

After carrying out the rituals, Bisht became visibly emotional and was seen wiping away tears with a traditional gamcha while offering folded-hand prayers to his son-in-law.

The atmosphere at the cremation ground remained deeply emotional throughout the ceremony as family members and supporters gathered to bid Prateek Yadav a final farewell.

Akhilesh Yadav also arrived at the cremation ground and paid an emotional tribute to his younger brother. Along with cousins Dharmendra Yadav and Aditya Yadav, Akhilesh Yadav participated in the last rites by placing logs on the pyre according to Hindu funeral traditions.

Prateek Yadav's wife Aparna Yadav and their daughters, Prathama and Padmaja, were present during the final rites. Several family members, including Shivpal Singh Yadav, were also seen seated together at the cremation ground as the family mourned the loss. Akhilesh Yadav's son, Arjun Yadav, remained with relatives throughout the ceremony.

Senior political leaders cutting across party lines attended the funeral to pay their respects. Uttar Pradesh Deputy Chief Minister Brajesh Pathak was among those present at the cremation ground. Earlier, Deputy Chief Minister Keshav Prasad Maurya, Dimple Yadav and several other leaders had visited the family residence to offer condolences.

Prateek Yadav's funeral procession began earlier in the day from his residence and attracted thousands of supporters. Emotional slogans of Prateek Yadav Amar Rahein echoed during the procession as supporters lined the route to pay their respects. Leaders from both the Samajwadi Party and the Bharatiya Janata Party participated in the procession, reflecting the wide personal connections maintained by Prateek Yadav.

Following family tradition, his mortal remains were briefly kept outside the Samajwadi Party office before the procession moved towards the cremation ground. According to customary rituals, the body was placed on the ground five times before reaching Baikunth Dham.

Prateek Yadav was also remembered for his affection towards animals. During the procession, Aparna Yadav displayed a photograph featuring Prateek Yadav with his pet dogs and monkey on the hearse, an emotional tribute that touched many mourners present at the ceremony.

Balianta mob lynching: Odisha crime branch nabs main accused

BHUBANESWAR

The Crime Branch of Odisha Police on Thursday arrested the prime accused involved in the brutal mob lynching of a Government Railway Police (GRP) constable, Soumya Ranjan Swain, in Balianta police station area on the outskirts of Bhubaneswar on May 7 over allegations of sexual harassment of a girl.

Following Chief Minister Mohan Charan Majhi's directions, the Crime Branch was entrusted with the investigation into the sensational incident that occurred in the Bhingarpur-Kaja area under Balianta Police Station on May 7.

In a press statement, the Crime Branch revealed that on May 14, based on substantial evidence collected during the course of the investigation, the main accused, Ranjit Patra alias Chinu, 24, of Gangeswargada under Cuttack Sadar police station in the Cuttack Urban Police District, was arrested.

Investigation has revealed his alleged involvement in assaulting the deceased on the head, a vital part of the body, with a bamboo stick after the deceased had been immobilized by having his hands and legs tied with ropes, informed the Crime Branch.

Additionally, another accused, identified as Judhisthira Jena alias Bunty (22), was also arrested on May 11 and forwarded to the Court, which sent him to judicial custody. So far, a total of 13 accused persons have been arrested in connection with the mob lynching case, of whom 11 were arrested earlier by the local police.

Investigation is continuing on a priority basis, and efforts are underway to identify and apprehend other persons involved in the incident, the Crime Branch added. Notably, the premier investigating wing of the Odisha Police has taken full control of the investigation into two cases registered at the Balianta Police Station, one related to the mob lynching of Soumya and the other based on a complaint lodged by one of the victim girls, who accused the deceased of attempting to sexually assault her.

Vijay govt announces 2% DA hike for employees, pensioners

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister C. Joseph Vijay on Thursday announced a two per cent increase in Dearness Allowance (DA) for state government employees, teachers, pensioners, and family pensioners, raising it from 58 per cent to 60 per cent with retrospective effect from January 1, 2026.

The announcement was made through an official government press release issued by the Department of Information and Public Relations. The move is expected to benefit nearly 16 lakh government employees, teachers, pensioners, and family pensioners across the state.

According to the statement, the decision was taken after the Union government enhanced the Dearness Allowance for Central government employees from 58 per cent to 60 per cent with effect from January 1, 2026.

The Tamil Nadu government has now extended the same benefit to state government staff and pensioners.

The state government said the hike reflects its commitment towards the welfare of its employees and teachers, who play a crucial role in implementing welfare schemes and public service initiatives across the state.

The press release noted that the administration led by Chief Minister Vijay has been focused on introducing and effectively implementing several people-centric welfare measures.

Officials said the increase in DA would result in an additional annual expenditure of approximately Rs 1,230 crore for the state exchequer. Despite the financial burden, the government has decided to allocate the necessary additional funds, keeping in mind the welfare of employees, teachers, pensioners, and family pensioners.

The announcement comes at a time when the newly elected Tamil Nadu government is rolling out a series of administrative and welfare-related measures following the 2026 Assembly elections.

Employee unions and pensioners' associations have welcomed the move, stating that the hike would provide relief amid rising living costs and inflationary pressures.

The revised Dearness Allowance will be implemented retrospectively from January 1, 2026, and the government is expected to issue detailed orders regarding disbursement and arrears soon.

POST-POLL VIOLENCE

Chaos at Calcutta HC as lawyers shout 'thief' slogans at Mamata

KOLKATA

Mild tension broke out at the premises of the Calcutta High Court on Thursday after Mamata Banerjee alleged that she was assaulted and heckled by a section of lawyers while leaving the court premises.

The incident occurred after Banerjee appeared as counsel before a division bench hearing a public interest litigation related to alleged post-poll violence in West Bengal.

According to eyewitness accounts, a group of advocates and individuals gathered near the court premises began shouting slogans against Mamata Banerjee as she exited the building following the hearing.

Some lawyers allegedly addressed her as a thief, while others were heard making abusive remarks directed at the former chief minister and Trinamool Congress chief.

As the situation grew tense, Banerjee briefly stopped and spoke to waiting journalists outside the court. Pointing towards the agitated crowd, she alleged that she had been assaulted during the commotion. They have assaulted me, she told media personnel before leaving the court premises.

The incident quickly triggered political reactions from the All India Trinamool Congress, which strongly criticised the behaviour of the protesting lawyers. Party spokesperson Arup Chakraborty described the incident as undemocratic and inappropriate, especially within the premises of a court.

Chakraborty said it was unfortunate that individuals who often speak about democratic values in West Bengal behaved in such a manner inside what he described as a temple of justice. He also claimed that the treatment faced by Banerjee reflected the deteriorating democratic atmosphere in the state under the current political environment.

Earlier in the day, Banerjee had argued before a division bench headed by Chief Justice Sujoy Paul and Justice Partha Sarathi Sen. She sought judicial intervention over alleged incidents of post-poll violence in West Bengal following the declaration of Assembly election results on May 4.

During her arguments, Banerjee urged the court to act against violence allegedly targeting women and members of minority communities after the elections. She argued that immediate measures were necessary to protect vulnerable groups and restore law and order in affected areas.

However, the state government opposed her claims during the hearing. State counsel Dhiraj Trivedi rejected the allegations and argued that the accusations were baseless because no specific incidents or evidence had been presented before the court.

The developments at the High Court added fresh political tension to the already heated debate over alleged post-poll violence in West Bengal, with both ruling and opposition parties continuing to trade accusations over the law and order situation in the state.

SATHEESAN AS CM: HOW CONG DUCKED A K'TAKA REPEAT IN KERALA

In Karnataka, the Congress had prioritised MLA numbers. In Kerala, however, it chose differently

For nearly 10 days after the Congress-led UDF swept Kerala, the party looked dangerously close to replaying a familiar script. The numbers inside the legislature party appeared to favour KC Venugopal. But on Thursday, the Congress high command chose VD Satheesan as Chief Minister, a decision many within the party see as a conscious attempt to avoid the kind of lingering power struggle that has troubled the Congress government in Karnataka since 2023.

According to sources, Congress MP Sonia Gandhi was also asked for advice while deliberations were underway and she suggested the party should go with someone who is able to keep the party together in the state. Soon after, the decision was clear: Satheesan was picked as the party's Kerala CM name.

The comparison with Karnataka, however, is difficult to ignore. In both states, the Congress faced a similar question after victory: should the party reward the leader who rebuilt the organisation and led the campaign, or should it go with the candidate who enjoyed stronger backing among MLAs?

In Kerala, the Congress appears to have decided that repeating the Karnataka formula could come at a political cost.

K'taka model that continue to haunt Cong

After the Congress's emphatic victory in Karnataka in 2023, the biggest battle was not against the BJP but inside the party itself.

DK Shivakumar was widely credited with reviving the Congress organisation in Karnataka after years of setbacks. As state Congress chief, he played a central role in mobilising cadres, fundraising, coalition-building and leading the campaign machinery. Many Congress workers believed he had earned the Chief Minister's post through years of political groundwork.

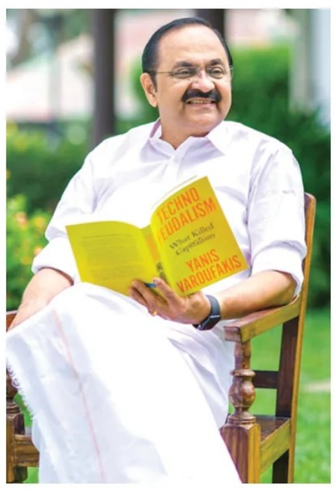
But when the time came to choose the CM, the Congress high command picked Siddaramaiah.

The main reason was legislative support. A larger section of MLAs backed Siddaramaiah, who was seen as the party's tallest mass leader in the state. Shivakumar eventually accepted the Deputy Chief Minister's role after prolonged negotiations, but reports of a "rotational CM arrangement" and continuing rivalry never fully disappeared.

Even three years later, periodic speculation over leadership change continues to surface in Karnataka politics, forcing the Congress leadership to repeatedly deny internal tensions.

That experience appears to have influenced how the Congress approached Kerala.

How Satheesan became face of Congress' Kerala revival



When the Congress suffered defeat in the 2021 Kerala Assembly election, the party leadership handed VD Satheesan the role of Leader of Opposition.

At that time, the choice itself was seen as a generational shift. Satheesan projected a more aggressive opposition style compared to the Congress's earlier leadership in Kerala. He frequently took the fight directly to the CPI(M) government over corruption allegations, governance issues, law-and-order controversies and financial management.

Over the next few years, Satheesan increasingly emerged as the public face of the UDF opposition campaign.

Congress workers across Kerala often viewed him as the leader who brought energy back into the party's state unit after years of factional fatigue. During the election campaign too, Satheesan remained at the forefront of rallies, media outreach and political messaging.

By the time the UDF returned to power, many within the Congress believed Satheesan had become inseparable from the party's comeback narrative.

Public support outweighs seniority

One major reason appears to have been public sentiment. As uncertainty over the CM choice dragged on, signs of unease began emerging within sections of the Congress cadre. Posters reportedly appeared in parts of Kerala warning the leadership against sidelining Satheesan despite his role in the UDF victory.

The concern within the party was that if the Congress overlooked the leader most associated with the victory campaign, it could demoralise workers and create the impression that grassroots political effort mattered less than organisational lobbying in Delhi.

How did Satheesan rise in Kerala politics?

* Born in 1964 in Nettoor near Kochi, Satheesan entered politics through the Kerala Students Union (KSU) before gradually moving into the Youth Congress and mainstream party structure.

* Unlike many Congress power centres built through Delhi lobbying or factional camps, Satheesan built his image largely through ground-level politics and legislative visibility.

* A lawyer by training, he became known inside the Kerala Assembly for his sharp speeches and combative style.

* Since 2001, he has continuously represented the Paravur Assembly constituency in Ernakulam district, slowly building a reputation as one of the Congress's most vocal leaders in Kerala politics.

* When the UDF lost the 2021 Kerala Assembly election to the Left Front under Pinarayi Vijayan, the Congress was facing a serious credibility problem in the state. That was when the party unexpectedly appointed Satheesan as Leader of the Opposition.

* Though many questioned the decision, but over the next five years, Satheesan completely reshaped his political image.

* He became the Congress's loudest anti-Left voice, repeatedly attacking the Vijayan government over corruption allegations, governance controversies, financial issues and law-and-order concerns.

Delhi mandates two-day work from home for govt employees

NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta on Thursday announced mandatory work-from-home for government employees for two days every week as part of a fuel conservation and sustainable mobility initiative.

Addressing a press conference, the Chief Minister said all Delhi government offices will implement the policy immediately. Private companies and institutions will also be advised to adopt a similar two-day work-from-home system, while the Labour Department will monitor implementation of the advisory.

The announcement comes days after Prime Minister Narendra Modi urged citizens to reduce fuel consumption and adopt environmentally sustainable practices.

As part of the new measures, the Delhi government has also reduced petrol and diesel quotas for official vehicles by 20 percent. Officials who earlier received 200 to 250 litres of fuel per month will now receive only 160 to 200 litres.

The Chief Minister further announced that ministers and senior officials will use the Delhi Metro every Monday under a campaign titled "Metro Monday." She said government departments have already begun reducing fuel expenses by limiting use of official vehicles and encouraging public transport.

Rekha Gupta also appealed to private organisations to support the initiative in order to reduce traffic congestion and fuel usage across the city.

In another symbolic move aimed at promoting sustainable mobility, the Chief Minister reduced her official convoy by nearly 60 percent. Her motorcade will now consist of only four vehicles, including two electric vehicles.

The Delhi government said the measures are part of a broader effort to encourage energy conservation, public transport usage and environmentally friendly commuting practices in the national capital.

Stalin takes responsibility for DMK defeat

CHENNAI

Accepting full responsibility for the DMK's defeat in the 2026 Tamil Nadu Assembly elections, MK Stalin on Thursday called for unity, introspection and sweeping organisational reforms within the party.

The meeting marked the first major organisational gathering of the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam after the DMK-led Secular Progressive Alliance lost power in the Assembly elections to the alliance headed by Chief Minister C. Joseph Vijay and his Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam party.

During his address, Stalin said there was no benefit in leaders blaming one another for the party's defeat. He stated that as party president, he was willing to take complete responsibility for the setback.

One is blaming another and pointing an accusing finger at someone else. There will be no end if we continue blaming one another. When I take pride in victory, I should also take responsibility for defeat. There is nothing wrong with it. It is only fair, Stalin said.

Referring to the rapid rise of TVK in Tamil Nadu politics, Stalin described the party's electoral success as a new and attractive magic tsunami that had caused major political damage in the state. However, he clarified that he was not referring to the achievement itself, but to the broader political impact it had created.

He called for unity, introspection and sweeping organisational reforms within the party

By tsunami, I do not mean achievement or adventure. I only mean that it has caused great damage. It has damaged the interests of Tamil Nadu, he said while urging party cadres to work towards regaining public trust.

Stalin emphasised that the defeat represented only a temporary electoral setback and not the end of the DMK's political future. He called on party leaders and workers to carefully analyse constituency-level failures and reconnect with the people through disciplined organisational efforts.

Highlighting the importance of unity within the party structure, Stalin reminded district secretaries that every cadre played an important role in strengthening the movement. A building stands supported by all its pillars. Everyone is important, he said, while also warning that those unwilling to work with commitment could step aside.

As part of the party's revival efforts, Stalin announced a statewide internal review process to identify the reasons behind the electoral defeat. A special committee will travel across Tamil Nadu and submit a detailed report within 20 days after gathering feedback from cadres and local leaders. The DMK chief also announced the launch of a dedicated website from Friday to collect suggestions from party workers, supporters and well-wishers regarding organisational reforms and reasons for the defeat.

Hinting at major changes within the party, Stalin said drastic changes would be introduced based on the feedback received. Ending his speech on a hopeful note, he expressed confidence that the DMK would recover politically in the future.

Tender commission scam: Jharkhand ex-min Alamgir out on bail

RANCHI

Former Jharkhand minister Alamgir Alam was released from Birsa Munda Central Jail on Thursday after the Supreme Court granted him bail in the high-profile tender commission scam.

Alamgir Alam had been in judicial custody since May 2024 along with his private secretary Sanjiv Lal in connection with an alleged corruption and money laundering racket involving government tenders in Jharkhand.

The Supreme Court granted him bail earlier this week after lower courts and the Jharkhand High Court had rejected his plea for relief.

According to reports, Alam's release was delayed briefly because the Supreme Court's order was not uploaded on the official court portal on time. The required legal formalities were later completed after his wife, Nishat Alam, submitted the surety documents.

Soon after his release from jail, supporters gathered outside the prison premises and celebrated by distributing sweets and bursting firecrackers. The celebrations, however, sparked sharp reactions from opposition parties, especially the Bharatiya Janata Party.

Leader of Opposition in the Jharkhand Assembly and former Chief Minister Babulal Marandi criticised the celebrations, stating that Alam had not been acquitted of the charges but had only received interim relief due to considerations related to age and health.

In a social media post, Marandi questioned the public celebrations and remarked sarcastically that the scenes resembled the return of a freedom fighter rather than someone accused in a major corruption case. He also referred to the alleged recovery of a huge amount of cash during the investigation and questioned whether corruption and misuse of public money deserved such public celebration.

The case relates to an alleged organised tender commission racket within Jharkhand's Rural Development Department. According to the Enforcement Directorate, contractors were allegedly forced to pay nearly three percent commission in exchange for securing government tenders.

French Prez Macron faces a test next week

PARIS

French President Emmanuel Macron faces a test next week when lawmakers decide whether to approve his former chief of staff to run the central bank, a nomination some critics say is part of a campaign to protect key institutions from a possible far-right election win in 2027. A rejection of Emmanuel Moulin would represent an embarrassing defeat, underlining the unpopular president's lame-duck status less than a year before his second term ends. Meanwhile, approval would likely fuel rivals' accusations that Macron is installing loyalists to top jobs who can ensure his legacy.

Senate set to convene as impeachment court on May 18

MANILA

The Philippine Senate will convene as an impeachment court on May 18 ahead of the trial of Vice President Sara Duterte, its president said on Thursday, with tensions flaring as the country's most powerful political clans face off. With former ally-turned-enemy President Ferdinand Marcos Jr limited by the constitution to a single term in office, Duterte has been the clear favourite to succeed him in 2028, but she faces a ban from holding office and removal from her post if convicted. The 24-member upper house will convene as a court on Monday to go over rules and procedures ahead of the start of a trial, which will take place.

China's Xi warns Trump on Taiwan at Beijing summit

The two leaders were joined by business executives for a lavish state banquet, after meeting for two hours and 15 minutes at the start of their two-day summit.

BEIJING

Chinese President Xi Jinping told U.S. President Donald Trump that trade negotiations between the two countries were moving in a positive direction during a high-profile summit in Beijing on Thursday. The remarks came during the opening day of a two-day summit in Beijing, marking the first visit by a sitting U.S. president to China in nearly a decade. The meeting was held at the Great Hall of the People and included an elaborate welcome ceremony featuring an honour guard and large crowds of children waving flowers and flags.

Despite ongoing tensions between Washington and Beijing, the atmosphere during the summit appeared warm and friendly. Trump praised Xi during opening remarks, calling him a great leader and suggesting the meeting could become the biggest summit ever. The two leaders reportedly held discussions for more than two hours on trade, security and regional issues.

Xi later stated that negotiations between U.S. and Chinese trade officials held in South Korea had achieved overall balanced and positive outcomes. The talks were aimed at preserving a fragile trade truce reached between the two nations last October and creating new mechanisms to support future trade and investment cooperation.

However, the Chinese president also focused heavily on the issue of Taiwan, the self-governed island that China claims as its territory. According to a Chinese government summary of the talks, Xi described Taiwan as the most sensitive and important issue in relations between the two countries. He warned that if the matter was handled improperly, it could place the entire U.S.-China relationship in an extremely dangerous situation and potentially lead to direct confrontation or conflict.

Political analyst Joe Mazur of consultancy Trivium China said Beijing had delivered strong messages on Taiwan before, but Xi's latest comments stood out for their directness. He said the warning signaled that China wanted the United States to avoid any actions that could increase tensions around the island.

Trump did not publicly comment on the Taiwan issue after the meeting. The two leaders later appeared together for photographs at the Temple of Heaven, a UNESCO World Heritage Site in Beijing, as the summit continued with global attention focused on the future of U.S.-China relations.

Russia launches another mass attack on Ukraine

KYIV

President Zelenskyy said Russia had launched more than 670 attack drones, 56 missiles in the attack

Russia carried out its biggest aerial assault on Ukraine over a two-day period since the war began, targeting the capital city of Kyiv and several other regions with hundreds of drones and missiles, Ukrainian officials said on Thursday.

According to Ukrainian authorities, Russia launched more than 1,560 drones, making it one of the heaviest coordinated attacks since the start of the war in February 2022. Overnight on Thursday alone, Moscow fired over 670 attack drones and 56 missiles across Ukrainian territory.

Ukraine's air force said its air defence systems intercepted a large number of incoming weapons during the massive overnight barrage. Officials stated that 41 missiles and 652 drones were successfully shot down before reaching their intended targets. However, several strikes still caused major destruction in Kyiv and surrounding regions.

President Zelenskiy condemned the attacks and said they demonstrated that Russia had no intention of bringing the war to an end. These are definitely not the actions of those who believe the war is coming to an end, he said while urging international allies to continue supporting Ukraine's air defence systems and military capabilities.

The Ukrainian leader also appealed to partner nations not to remain silent in the face of the latest escalation. He stressed that strengthening Ukraine's ability to defend its skies remained critical as Russia intensified its aerial campaign.

Kyiv was identified as the primary target during the overnight attacks. Zelenskiy said at least 20 different locations across the capital suffered damage. Explosions were also reported in nearby areas within the Kyiv region.

Officials confirmed that at least three people were killed in the strikes, while nearly 40 others were injured, including two children. Emergency response teams were deployed across the city to search for survivors and clear damaged buildings.

Kyiv Mayor Vitalii Klitschko warned that additional victims could still be trapped beneath collapsed concrete and rubble as rescue operations continued through the day.

Images shared by local authorities showed heavily damaged residential buildings, shattered windows and smoke rising from several districts. The latest strikes came just days after Russian President Vladimir Putin said he believed the war in Ukraine was nearing an end.

Silina resigns after coalition govt collapses

CYPRUS

Latvian Prime Minister Evika Silina announced her resignation on Thursday after the collapse of her coalition government, creating political uncertainty in the Baltic nation just months before parliamentary elections scheduled for October. The resignation followed the withdrawal of support from a key coalition partner, leaving Silina without a governing majority in parliament.

In a televised statement, Silina confirmed that she would step down from office while expressing determination to remain active in politics.

I am resigning, but I am not giving up, the prime minister said during her public address.

Silina, leader of the centre-right New Unity party, had been facing increasing pressure after tensions within the coalition government intensified in recent days.

The crisis reached a breaking point when the left-wing Progressives party announced it was withdrawing support for the government, effectively stripping the ruling coalition of its parliamentary majority.The decision by the Progressives came after the dismissal of Defence Minister Andris Spruds over the weekend. Spruds, a member of the Progressives party, was removed from his post following criticism surrounding the handling of incidents involving stray Ukrainian drones entering Latvian airspace from Russia. The drone incidents had raised concerns about national security and border protection in Latvia, which shares a border with Russia and has remained highly alert due to the ongoing war in Ukraine. Political tensions escalated after opposition parties and coalition members questioned the government's response to the security breaches.

Mass stir erupts in Havana amid blackouts, fuel crisis

HAVANA

Large protests broke out across Havana as residents faced some of the worst power outages in decades.

The demonstrations spread through several neighborhoods on the outskirts of Havana, where crowds blocked roads using burning piles of garbage, banged cooking pots and shouted slogans demanding the restoration of electricity. Protesters repeatedly chanted, Turn on the lights! and The people, united, will never be defeated! as frustration over extended blackouts boiled over.

Residents said the electricity crisis had intensified sharply since January after U.S. President Donald Trump imposed tougher economic restrictions on Cuba. The measures included a renewed embargo and threats of tariffs against countries supplying fuel to the communist-run island. Cuban officials have blamed these sanctions for worsening fuel shortages and limiting the government's ability to maintain stable electricity generation.

Many neighborhoods in Havana reportedly endured power cuts lasting more than 40 hours.

Residents described unbearable heat, spoiled food and increasing hardship, particularly for vulnerable people such as the elderly and children.

Rodolfo Alonso, a resident of the Playa district, said he joined the protests after days without electricity. Sweating in the intense heat, Alonso explained that many elderly residents in his community were suffering badly.

He said families were simply asking for a few hours of power to preserve food and manage daily life. Alonso insisted that the demonstrations were not politically motivated but driven by desperation over worsening living conditions.

In several locations, electricity was restored shortly after protests began, according to witnesses. Reuters reporters observed crowds cheering loudly when the lights returned before quickly dispersing from the streets.

Saudi warplanes struck militias in Iraq amid war

RIYADH

Saudi fighter jets bombed targets linked to powerful Tehran-backed Shi'ite militias in Iraq during the Iran war, while retaliatory strikes were also launched from Kuwait into Iraq, multiple sources familiar with the matter said.

The strikes are part of a broader pattern of military responses around the Gulf that remained largely hidden during a conflict that began with U.S.-Israeli attacks on Iran and has spread to the wider Middle East.

For this report, Reuters spoke to three Iraqi security and military officials, a Western official, and two people briefed on the matter, one of them in the U.S.

The Saudi strikes were carried out by Saudi air force fighter jets on Iran-linked militia targets near the kingdom's northern border with Iraq, one Western official and the person briefed on the matter said. The Western official said some strikes took place around the time of the April 7 U.S.-Iran ceasefire.

They targeted sites from which drone and missile attacks were launched at Saudi Arabia and other Gulf states, the sources said.

Citing military assessments, the Iraqi sources said rocket attacks were launched on at least two occasions from Kuwaiti territory on Iraq. One set of strikes hit militia positions in southern Iraq in April, killing several fighters and destroying a facility used by Iran-backed militia Kataib Hezbollah for communications and drone operations, they said.

Reuters could not determine whether the rockets from Kuwait were fired by the Kuwaiti armed forces or the U.S. military, which has a large presence there. The U.S. military declined to comment. The Kuwaiti information ministry and the Iraqi government did not immediately respond to requests for comment.

Philippines seeking to confirm ICC suspect has fled after chaos at Senate

MANILA

Philippine authorities were seeking confirmation on Thursday of reports that a top politician wanted by the International Criminal Court had fled, a day after gunfire rang out at the Senate where he had taken refuge fearing his arrest.

Senator Ronald Bato dela Rosa, the former national police chief and top enforcer of ex-President Rodrigo Duterte's bloody war on drugs, has been under Senate protection and is wanted for crimes against humanity, the same charges Duterte is accused of.

Several sources confirmed that the Senator, Senator Bato, is no longer in the Senate premises. But we are still getting confirmation, Presidential Communications Undersecretary Claire Castro told a press conference.

Gunshots were heard inside the Senate and people there scrambled for cover, hours after dela Rosa, 64, appealed on social media for supporters to mobilise, saying law enforcement agents were coming to arrest him.

The incident sparked chaos, with a heavy presence of police and armed guards at the Senate, protests outside and more than a dozen shots fired just moments after marines were called in to bolster security.President Ferdinand Marcos Jr met security chiefs on Thursday and police said one person had been detained, with investigations underway to identify individuals who tried to enter the Senate, and bullet casings and assault rifle magazines recovered.

The person has provided names, but these still need confirmation, police spokesperson Randulf Tuano told DZBB radio.

It was unclear who fired the shots, or if dela Rosa was still in the Senate on Thursday, with speculation rife that he had slipped away overnight.

The Hague-based court unsealed a warrant on Monday for his arrest, dated November, while he has filed an emergency appeal at the Supreme Court, arguing the ICC has no jurisdiction in the Philippines after its 2019 withdrawal from the international institution.

FRAGILE CEASEFIRE

Trump seeks China's help to end Iran war

WASHINGTON

The ongoing U.S.-Israeli conflict with Iran has cast a shadow over the summit between the two world leaders as diplomatic efforts to secure peace remain stalled.

More than a month after a fragile ceasefire was introduced, negotiations have failed to achieve meaningful progress, while the war continues to affect global energy markets and political stability in the Middle East.

The conflict has already claimed thousands of lives and reshaped regional alliances. Rising oil and commodity prices linked to the fighting have also added pressure on the global economy, with concerns growing in the United States over inflation and economic uncertainty ahead of the November midterm elections.

Washington has demanded that Iran abandon its nuclear programme and stop restricting access through the Strait of Hormuz, one of the world's most critical shipping lanes. Before the war began on February 28, around 20 percent of global oil and liquefied natural gas supplies moved through the narrow waterway.Iran, however, has insisted on compensation for war-related damage and demanded an end to the U.S. blockade of Iranian ports. Tehran has also called for a halt to fighting in Lebanon, where Israeli forces remain engaged in conflict with the Iran-backed Hezbollah movement. Trump has rejected Iran's demands, describing them as unacceptable.

China's role in the crisis has drawn increasing attention because of its close economic relationship with Tehran and its position as a major buyer of Iranian oil.

Analysts believe Washington hopes Beijing can use its influence to pressure Iran into reducing tensions in the Persian Gulf region.

Gavaskar: Kohli shows veterans are still best

Gavaskar hailed Kohli's masterful century against KKR, proving veteran experience remains supreme as RCB claims the top spot

NEW DELHI

Cricket icon Sunil Gavaskar has praised Virat Kohli for a "masterclass" performance that proved the veteran generation is still the best in the game. In the recent match Kohli silenced critics by smashing an unbeaten 105 against the Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR). His 60-ball century guided Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) to a thrilling six-wicket victory and catapulted them to the top of the IPL standings.

The knock marked Kohli's ninth IPL century and his tenth overall in T20 cricket. While much of the 2026 season has focused on "Generation Next," Gavaskar noted that Kohli's precision and control showed why experience remains unbeatable. Gavaskar remarked that while young stars are shining, the "experienced greats" are far from finished. He highlighted that Kohli is now the fastest player ever to reach 14,000 runs in T20 cricket.

A major turning point in the match occurred early on when KKR's Rovman Powell dropped a catch while Kohli was still settling in. Gavaskar pointed out that giving a player of Kohli's stature a second chance is a fatal mistake. The superstar batter made KKR pay dearly for the error, stitching together a vital 92-run partnership with Devdutt Padikkal to seal the chase.

As Kohli moves into third place in the race for the Orange Cap, the cricket world is once again in awe of his longevity. Gavaskar concluded that while records are meant to be broken, matching Kohli's consistency will take a very long time.

Sindhu and Satwik-Chirag reach Thailand quarterfinals

BANGKOK

Indian badminton legends PV Sindhu and the world-class duo of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty secured their spots in the Thailand Open quarterfinals. Both entries delivered dominant performances in the Round of 16, keeping India's hopes alive in this BWF Super 500 tournament.

Two-time Olympic medalist PV Sindhu needed just 28 minutes to dismiss Denmark's Amalie Schulz with a commanding 21-13, 21-15 victory. Sindhu, currently ranked 12th in the world, showed sharp movement and aggressive net play throughout the match.

However, her path to the podium gets significantly tougher from here. She is now

PV Sindhu and Satwik-Chirag storm into the Thailand Open quarterfinals, keeping India's hopes alive while facing high-stakes showdowns against elite Japanese opponents for podium spots set for a blockbuster clash against her longtime rival and reigning world champion, Akane Yamaguchi of Japan. Sindhu holds a slight historical advantage in their head-to-head record, making this the most anticipated match of the next round.

In the men's doubles category, top seeds Satwik and Chirag continued their fine form by defeating the Malaysian pair of Bryan Jeremy Goonting and Muhammad Haikal. The Indians won in straight games, 21-12 and 21-19. As the only top seeds in the draw with previous title-winning experience at this event, they are heavy favorites to reach the finals. They will next face Japan's Takumi Nomura and Yuichi Shimogami.

While Sindhu and the doubles pair advanced, it was a day of mixed results for the rest of the Indian contingent. Earlier, Kidambi Srikanth fell in a hard-fought three-game battle against Su Li-yang, while young talent Devika Sihag was eliminated by Thailand's Pitchamon Opatniputh. All eyes now turn to the marquee quarterfinals as India's veterans aim for gold.

Frederic Soyez named Indian junior hockey coach

NEW DELHI

Hockey India has announced the appointment of Frederic Soyez as the new head coach for the junior men's national team. The Frenchman, a highly respected figure in European hockey, arrives with over 30 years of experience as both a prolific player and an elite coach. He replaces Indian legend P.R. Sreejesh, whose successful coaching term ended in December 2025.

Soyez's resume is packed with top-tier achievements. He represented France nearly 200 times as a player and later coached the national teams of both France and Spain. Notably, he has led teams through three Olympic Games, including the recent Paris 2024 Olympics. Under his guidance, Spain won a silver medal at the 2019 European Championships, and he recently led the French U18 squad to a silver finish in 2025.

This appointment is part of a bigger plan to prepare India for the 2036 Olympics. Hockey India President Dilip Tirkey explained that Soyez will help build a strong "pathway" for young athletes. By bringing in global experts, the organization hopes to create a consistent playing style that helps players move smoothly from junior levels to the senior national team.

A key part of the strategy is for Soyez to work alongside Indian coaches to share his international knowledge. This collaborative approach aims to make India's hockey system more self-reliant and competitive on the world stage. Officials believe Soyez's ability to nurture young talent will be the secret weapon in building a deeper, more powerful talent pool for the future.

Flintoff replaces Trevor Bayliss at Sydney Thunder

NEW DELHI

England cricket legend Andrew Flintoff is reportedly set to take over as the head coach of the Sydney Thunder for the upcoming Big Bash League (BBL) season. The former star all-rounder has emerged as the top choice to replace Trevor Bayliss, whose five-year term ended after the team struggled with inconsistent results, including a bottom-place finish in the 2025-26 season. This move marks Flintoff's first major coaching role in an overseas T20 league. Over the past year, he has been building his coaching resume by working with the England Lions and leading the Northern Superchargers in "The Hundred." His familiarity with Australian conditions is a major plus, as he previously played for the Brisbane Heat during the final stages of his professional playing career back in 2014.

If the appointment is confirmed, Flintoff will step into a challenging situation. One of his first big tasks will involve managing a leadership crisis within the team. The position of current captain and veteran opener David Warner is under serious scrutiny following a recent legal issue. Warner is expected to appear in court on June 24 regarding a drink-driving charge, leaving the team's captaincy in a state of uncertainty.

Fans are excited to see if Flintoff can bring his famous "Ashes-winning" energy to the Thunder dugout.

Urvil's "150-sixes-a-day" fuel CSK success

NEW DELHI

Long before Urvil Patel became the talk of the IPL, he was a silent warrior in Palampur. While others rested, the Gujarat wicketkeeper-batter was at the crease by 7:00 AM, refusing to leave until he had smashed 150 to 200 sixes. Now that relentless "150-sixes-a-day" regimen has transformed him into Chennai Super Kings' newest sensation.

Urvil's rise is a story of grit meeting opportunity. Stepping in after Ayush Mhatre's injury, he recently stunned the world by hitting a 13-ball fifty, the joint fastest in IPL history against Lucknow Super Giants. His explosive 65 off 23 balls didn't just keep CSK's playoff dreams alive - it brought a fresh, aggressive energy to a team traditionally known for its calm control.

His coach, Prakash Patani, recalls Urvil as a grounded student who monitors his diet strictly and treats preparation as a sacred duty. Despite the fame, Urvil remains the same humble boy who grew up in a family of schoolteachers. His success is deeply personal, too. Upon reaching his milestone fifty, he revealed a note from his pocket dedicated to his father, proving his heart is as strong as his bat swing.

Experts believe this is just the beginning. With the backing of MS Dhoni and a natural gift for clean hitting, Urvil is no longer just a replacement player. He is a match-winner. As his coach says, more "gifts" are coming, and a blue India jersey may soon follow the yellow one.

Manchester City beat Crystal Palace to pressure leaders Arsenal

MANCHESTER

Manchester City refused to back down in the Premier League title race, securing a vital 3-0 victory over Crystal Palace. The win keeps the pressure on league leaders Arsenal, narrowing the gap to just two points with only two games remaining in the season.

The deadlock was broken in the 32nd minute when Phil Foden delivered a moment of magic. His clever flick found Antoine Semenyo, who calmly slotted the ball into the bottom corner. Foden remained the architect of Palace's downfall just eight minutes later, setting up Omar Marmoush. Marmoush controlled the pass, spun past the defense, and beat goalkeeper Dean Henderson to make it 2-0 before halftime.

As the second half unfolded, City focused on control, eventually adding a third goal in the 84th minute. Rayan Cherki provided the assist for Savinho, who finished clinically to seal the three points.

After the match, manager Pep Guardiola heaped praise on Foden's creativity. He noted that against a defensive "low block," a team needs a "spark" that isn't found on a tactical board. Guardiola specifically lauded Foden's ability to create something from nothing in tight spaces. While City currently sits on 77 points behind Arsenal's 79, the race is out of their hands. They must win their final fixtures and hope Arsenal stumbles against Burnley or Crystal Palace.

PWL stars dominate senior open ranking tournament

GONDA

The Pro Wrestling League (PWL) continues to prove its worth as a powerhouse for Indian wrestling. At the recently concluded Senior Open Ranking tournament held in Gonda, athletes from the league's fifth season stole the show. Their success highlights how elite competition helps local talent prepare for the world stage.

In the men's freestyle events, Sagar from the UP Dominators grabbed gold in the 57kg category. However, the most inspiring story came from Yash Tushir. Representing Maharashtra Kesari, the former World Junior bronze medalist made a roaring comeback after a long struggle with knee and shoulder injuries. He defeated five opponents to secure gold in the 74kg division, proving he is back to his best.

Other PWL stars also climbed the podium. Naveen of the Mumbai Dangals won gold in the 79kg category, while veteran star Deepak Punia dominated the 92kg division. In the women's matches, Anjali of the Delhi Dangal Warriors secured a silver medal in the 62kg category, boosting her chances for national team selection.

PWL CEO Akhil Gupta noted that the league's mix of Olympians and rising stars creates a perfect training ground. The numbers back this up - PWL wrestlers have earned 11 of India's 17 recent Asian Championship medals. As the winners from Gonda move toward World Championship trials, the league's role in shaping India's wrestling future has never been clearer. These athletes are no longer just competing, they are leading the way for the nation.

DC Expand Global Footprint with New Cricket Academy in Seattle

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Capitals (DC) have taken a massive leap in their global expansion by opening a brand-new cricket academy in Seattle, USA. This move brings the Indian Premier League franchise's world-class coaching and technical expertise to the Pacific Northwest, marking a significant milestone for cricket's growth in the United States.

The new centre is a partnership with the Seattle Thunderbolts Academy, a successful local organization that won the Minor League Cricket Championship in 2022. By joining forces, DC aims to provide a structured pathway for over 200 young cricketers already training in the Thunderbolts system. The facility boasts impressive infrastructure, including six cricket grounds and professional turf wickets, ensuring high-quality practice sessions.

Delhi Capitals CEO Sunil Gupta emphasized that this expansion is about more than just a brand, it is about building a sustainable ecosystem.

Honda Gets Huge Cash Boost for Engines

LONDON

Honda is set to receive a massive $19 million financial boost to fix its struggling Formula One engines. The famous manufacturer, which now exclusively supplies power units to the Aston Martin team, has fallen significantly behind its rivals in the 2026 season. New rules from the FIA, the sport's governing body, will now allow Honda to spend extra money to catch up with top performers like Mercedes.

The help comes through a special system called "Additional Development and Upgrade Opportunities." This rule acts as a safety net for engine makers who find themselves at least 2% behind the best engine on the grid. Because Honda's performance has been far below expectations, they are being given "cost cap relief." This means they can spend more than the usual limit on research and repairs without being penalized.

So far in 2026, the partnership between Honda and Aston Martin has been rocky. The cars have faced major issues, including intense vibrations and trouble even finishing races. It wasn't until the fourth race in Miami that both drivers, Fernando Alonso and Lance Stroll, finally managed to cross the finish line, though they were near the back of the pack.

While Mercedes boss Toto Wolff agrees that struggling teams need help, he warned against letting them "leapfrog" the leaders.

He believes the rules should only help teams bridge the gap, not give them an unfair advantage. After the upcoming Canadian Grand Prix, officials will finalize exactly how much extra Honda can spend to get back into the race.

TSMC to issue USD 584 million in green bonds

TAIWAN

Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Company (TSMC) has announced that it will issue green bonds worth USD 584 million (about NT$18.4 billion) to fund environmental protection and sustainable infrastructure projects. The bonds will be offered in two tranches with different maturities and interest rates, as part of the company's broader financing plan approved earlier this year. The proceeds from the issuance will be used to support green building initiatives, energy efficiency improvements, and other sustainability-focused investments aligned with TSMC's long-term goal of achieving g net-zero emissions. The company has been a major issuer of green bonds in Taiwan since 2020 and continues to expand its environmental financing efforts alongside its semiconductor production growth.

Pvt placements to 'dominate' GCC funding channels

NEW DELHI

Fitch Ratings has said that banks in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) may increasingly depend on private placements and syndicated loans if the Iran-related conflict continues. The agency noted that ongoing geopolitical tensions could tighten liquidity conditions and keep public debt issuance below 2025 levels. Despite this, GCC banks are still supported by strong capital buffers and likely backing from regional authorities. Fitch added that private funding channels may dominate if instability persists, while public market issuance could recover if conditions improve. Investor demand remains strong, as seen in recent oversubscribed bond deals, and overall credit risks remain manageable.

Packaging seen key driver for Indian export growth

MUMBAI

Union Minister of State for Commerce and Industry Jitin Prasada said India must focus on "packaging for the world" as global demand for Indian products continues to grow. Speaking at the Indian Institute of Packaging's Diamond Jubilee event in Mumbai, he highlighted that India's expanding network of Free Trade Agreements and growing role in global trade are creating strong opportunities for sectors such as packaging. He said packaging is becoming increasingly important for improving the global acceptance of Indian goods, including food products, pharmaceuticals, defence items and FMCG goods. Prasada added that India is producing world-class products across industries, and quality packaging will play a key role in boosting exports and strengthening India's global trade position.

India enters EU draft list for aquaculture exports

India's inclusion in the EU aquaculture export draft list boosts seafood trade prospects and ensures continued market access stability

NEW DELHI

India has been included in the revised draft list published by the European Union (EU) for continued export of aquaculture products, a move that is expected to ensure uninterrupted seafood shipments to the European market beyond September 2026.

The decision is seen as a major boost for India's seafood export sector, particularly farmed shrimp, which forms the bulk of shipments to the EU. The Commerce Ministry said the inclusion reflects confidence in India's regulatory systems, residue monitoring mechanisms, and food safety standards.

According to the ministry, once the revised regulation is formally adopted by the European Commission, Indian aquaculture exports will continue without disruption.

The earlier EU regulation issued in October 2024 had not included India in the list of approved third countries for exporting animal-origin food products after September 2026, raising concerns among exporters.

The EU remains a key market for India's seafood industry. In 2025–26, it was the third-largest destination, accounting for 18.94% of total export value, worth about $1.593 billion.

Export performance also showed strong growth compared to the previous year, with value rising by 41.45% and quantity increasing by 38.29%.

The government noted that sustained efforts by agencies such as the Marine Products Export Development Authority (Marine Products Export Development Authority) and the Export Inspection Council (Export Inspection Council) have helped strengthen compliance systems. These include improvements in veterinary drug monitoring, antimicrobial residue control, traceability, and quality assurance in aquaculture production and processing.

The development follows continued technical engagement between India and the EU, aimed at aligning regulatory standards and ensuring safe food exports.

Officials said the inclusion is expected to support export growth, generate employment, and enhance foreign exchange earnings from the seafood sector while reinforcing India's position as a reliable global supplier.

India's EV battery demand is projected to rise sharply, driven by rapid electric vehicle adoption and expanding domestic manufacturing ecosystem

E2W lead India's EV market with strong adoption

NEW DELHI

India's electric vehicle (EV) ecosystem is expected to see a major surge in battery demand, with requirements projected to rise nearly 10 times—from 20 GWh in 2025 to 200 GWh by 2032—according to a new industry report by the India Energy Storage Alliance (India Energy Storage Alliance).

The report highlights that the country's EV sector is entering a key growth phase, where policy-driven adoption is evolving into a full-scale industrial ecosystem. This includes rapid expansion in batteries, motors, power electronics, advanced chemistries, and localised supply chains.

It notes that India's EV sales crossed 2.5 million units in 2025, with electric two-wheelers leading the market at about 1.5 million units, followed by around 0.7 million electric three-wheelers. The next major growth phase is expected to come from electric passenger vehicles and light commercial fleets. Improved battery economics, expanding charging infrastructure, and wider participation from original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) are expected to drive faster adoption of electric cars. The report also points out that commercial mobility—especially urban logistics, public transport, and fleet operations—is increasingly shifting toward electrification due to lower total cost of ownership.

Industry leaders quoted in the report said India's EV market is transitioning from policy support to a more mature manufacturing-driven industry. This shift is expected to open opportunities in component localisation, recycling systems, and advanced battery technologies.

The findings will be featured in the upcoming India Energy Storage Week 2026, scheduled for July 8–10 at Yashobhoomi (IICC), which is expected to host over 200 exhibitors and more than 10,000 global industry participants.

Experts believe that the next phase of India's EV growth will depend heavily on building resilient supply chains and strengthening domestic manufacturing capabilities to support the rapidly expanding demand for batteries and related components.

Summary

- Battery demand expected to grow rapidly
- EV sales crossing new national milestones
- Two-wheelers leading India's electric adoption
- Passenger EVs driving next growth phase
- Local manufacturing and supply chains expand

Tesla opens first experience centre in B'luru

NEW DELHI

Tesla has inaugurated its first experience centre in India's tech hub of Bengaluru, located in Whitefield, marking a key expansion step for the company in the country's growing electric mobility market.The new facility allows customers to explore the Tesla Model Y and the newly introduced Model Y L, a six-seater electric SUV positioned for family buyers. The Model Y L is priced from ₹61.99 lakh (ex-showroom) and offers an estimated driving range of up to 681 km (WLTP), along with acceleration from 0–100 kmph in about five seconds.

The company also highlighted that the Model Y L provides up to 2,539 litres of cargo space with a three-row seating configuration. It has received top safety ratings from global agencies including NHTSA, IIHS, Euro NCAP, and ANCAP, reinforcing its positioning in the premium EV segment.

Tesla further announced the rollout of its after-sales service network in Whitefield to support customers in Bengaluru. This move is aimed at strengthening ownership experience as demand for electric vehicles rises in India.

The company said its Supercharging network will enable the Model Y L to gain up to 288 km of range in just 15 minutes. Home charging options will also be made available to improve convenience for users.

Bookings for the Model Y L have already opened via the company's official website. With this launch, Tesla now operates experience centres in Bengaluru, Mumbai's BKC, Delhi's Aerocity, and Gurugram, expanding its physical presence across major Indian cities.

The entry into Bengaluru reflects growing competition and interest in India's premium EV market, particularly among urban consumers seeking high-performance electric SUVs.

RBI to sell long-term bonds via auction

NEW DELHI

The Reserve Bank of India (Reserve Bank of India) has scheduled an underwriting auction for Government of India securities worth ₹32,000 crore on May 15. The entire notified amount will be covered under the underwriting process, which is part of the government's regular market borrowing programme.

According to the RBI, the auction will include two key securities: the 6.36% Government Security maturing in 2031 with a notified amount of ₹21,000 crore, and a new Government Security maturing in 2066 with a notified amount of ₹11,000 crore. The sale will be conducted through a multiple price-based auction method, allowing participants to submit bids at different price levels for long-term government bonds.

The underwriting arrangement follows the scheme introduced on November 14, 2007, which defines Minimum Underwriting Commitment (MUC) and Additional Competitive Underwriting (ACU) obligations for Primary Dealers. These Primary Dealers play a crucial role in ensuring smooth absorption of government debt in the market by committing to purchase securities even in volatile conditions.

The RBI has instructed Primary Dealers to submit their bids electronically through its Core Banking Solution platform, known as the E-Kuber system. The bidding window for the ACU auction will remain open between 9:00 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. on the day of the auction.

Under the system, underwriting commissions earned by Primary Dealers are credited to their current accounts on the day of security issuance. This structure incentivizes market participation while ensuring successful completion of government borrowing programmes.

The auction reflects the government's continued reliance on domestic borrowing to finance fiscal requirements while maintaining liquidity in the bond market. By involving Primary Dealers and using a structured underwriting mechanism, the RBI aims to ensure stability, transparency, and efficiency in government securities issuance.

India highlights structured textile recovery, reuse systems

Govt rejects claims India is textile waste dumping ground, citing strong domestic recycling systems, high recovery rates, and growing sustainability-focused industry reforms.

FACT-FILE

- Government rejects claim India is textile dumping ground
- Says 97% pre-consumer waste is recycled domestically
- Most textile waste generated within India itself
- Recycling sector valued at around ₹22,000 Cr annually
- Industry shifting toward cleaner regulated sustainable practices

NEW DELHI

The Government of India has rejected international media portrayals describing the country as a "dumping ground" for textile waste, stating that such claims are misleading and do not reflect the reality of its large and structured recycling ecosystem. The Ministry of Textiles said India operates one of the world's most extensive textile recovery and recycling networks, supported by long-established systems of reuse, repurposing, and material recovery. It added that recent foreign reports highlighting clusters such as Panipat selectively focused on environmental and labour concerns while ignoring improvements in regulation, sustainability practices, and technology adoption.

According to government data, India generates about 7,073 kilo tonnes of textile waste annually. Citing the "Mapping of Textile Waste Value Chain in India 2026" study, the ministry stated that nearly 97% of pre-consumer textile waste generated during manufacturing is recycled within the country.

The government further clarified that over 90% of the approximately 7.8 million tonnes of textile waste handled annually originates domestically, while imported waste accounts for only around 7%. This, it said, contradicts the narrative that India primarily absorbs textile waste from Western fast-fashion markets.

A report by the Federation of Indian Chambers of Commerce and Industry (FICCI) estimates that the textile waste recycling ecosystem contributes around ₹22,000 crore annually to the economy. The sector not only supports livelihoods but also plays a significant role in resource recovery and circular economy practices.

The government also referenced a study by the Indian Institute of Technology Delhi, based on data from the Panipat recycling cluster, which found that textile recycling can reduce environmental impacts such as greenhouse gas emissions and fossil fuel use by up to 40% compared to virgin fibre production.

While acknowledging challenges in post-consumer waste management, informal sector operations, and worker safety, the ministry said the industry is gradually moving toward greater formalisation and cleaner technologies. It added that regulatory bodies, including the National Green Tribunal (National Green Tribunal), continue to enforce environmental compliance across units.

Two-wheeler sales surge 28.4% across India

NEW DELHI

India's automobile sector recorded strong growth in April 2026, with passenger vehicle dispatches rising 25.4% year-on-year to 4,37,312 units, according to data released by the Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers (Society of Indian Automobile Manufacturers).

Two-wheeler sales also showed robust momentum, increasing 28.4% to 18,72,691 units, while three-wheeler dispatches surged 32.8% to 65,668 units. Overall production across passenger vehicles, two-wheelers, three-wheelers, and quadricycles reached 29,22,427 units in April, reflecting broad-based industry expansion.

Industry officials noted that April marked a strong start to FY 2026–27, continuing the momentum from the second half of the previous financial year. Passenger vehicles recorded their highest-ever monthly sales for April, supported by sustained consumer demand, improved supply conditions, and inventory build-up at dealerships.

According to SIAM Director General Rajesh Menon, both passenger vehicles and two-wheelers posted double-digit growth, with three-wheelers also achieving record sales. He highlighted that the strong performance reflects steady demand across segments despite concerns over rising global commodity prices, particularly due to geopolitical disruptions in West Asia. The passenger vehicle segment alone saw consistent expansion, while the two-wheeler category remained the primary volume driver. Urban and rural demand both contributed to the growth, with retail data showing continued traction in entry-level and commuter segments.

INPUT PRESSURE

Global Brent crude spike drives domestic fuel inflation

NEW DELHI

Wholesale Price Index (WPI) inflation in India rose sharply to 8.3% in April 2026, compared with 3.88% in March, mainly due to a steep increase in fuel and energy-related prices, according to industry analysis.

The sharp rise was largely driven by higher costs of crude petroleum, natural gas, petrol, and diesel, which significantly pushed up the Fuel and Power segment. Inflation in this group surged to 24.71% in April, a major jump from just 1.05% in the previous month. Crude petroleum and natural gas prices alone recorded a sharp increase of 67.18%, while petrol and diesel inflation stood at 32.40% and 25.19% respectively.

Industry body PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry (PHDCCI) noted that global Brent crude prices also spiked during the period due to geopolitical tensions, supply disruptions, and tightening global energy markets, further impacting domestic fuel costs.

Primary Articles inflation rose to 9.17%, driven by higher prices of crude oil, natural gas, food items, and minerals. Meanwhile, Manufactured Products inflation also strengthened to 4.62%, reflecting widespread cost increases across sectors such as basic metals, chemicals, textiles, machinery, and food products.

On a monthly basis, the overall WPI increased by 3.86% in April over March, with fuel and power alone rising 18.22% month-on-month, indicating strong short-term cost pressures across the economy.

Within manufacturing, basic metals inflation rose to 7.00%, textiles to 7.30%, and chemicals and chemical products to 5.09%, highlighting broad-based input cost escalation across industrial supply chains.

The provisional WPI index for all commodities stood at 167.0 in April 2026, up from 160.8 in March. The final inflation figure for February 2026 was revised to 2.26%.

Economists noted that future inflation trends will depend heavily on global energy price movements, commodity markets, and supply chain stability, with fuel costs expected to remain a key driver of wholesale inflation in the coming months.

Dr. Nataraja's TikluRama novel heads to cinema

The heartwarming and eco-conscious novel TikluRama, written by Dr. Nataraja, is making its way to the silver screen. In a grand celebration held at Mantri Mall, the book was officially released to the public while the film adaptation is already 40 percent complete. The event was attended by several distinguished guests, including Padmashree Dr. Doddarangegowda and actor-director K. Suchendra Prasad, who offered their best wishes to the production team.

Directed by Manjukavi, the film stars Dr. Rajveer in the lead role. The story carries a deep environmental message, focusing on the beauty of nature and the importance of rural life. Director Manjukavi emphasized that the book is meant to inspire change in people by teaching them how to care for the environment. Interestingly, the film features actor Suchendra Prasad in the role of an MLA, and the director hinted that a unique new title for the movie might be announced soon.

Dr. Rajveer, who is also an engineer, shared his personal journey of being inspired by literary legends during his school days. He explained that the story is rooted in the real-world knowledge he gained through government service. Meanwhile, Suchendra Prasad praised the book for its ability to "soothe the mind" and remove mental clutter through its charming rural setting. Produced by Karishma-Shryavya Combines, the movie features a strong supporting cast including Jahangir and Girish. As the book hits shelves, excitement is building for this meaningful story to finally come alive in theaters.

Exclusive rights secured for ALLU ARJUN'S style

The creators of the upcoming film Raaka are taking a bold stand to protect star Allu Arjun's unique style. In a rare move for Indian cinema, the makers plan to legally guard the film's signature dance steps and gestures. This strategy aims to stop other businesses from using the actor's famous movements for their own profit without permission.

This decision follows the massive global success of the movie Pushpa. In that film, Allu Arjun's "Srivalli" dance step and specific hand gestures became an instant viral sensation. While fans loved them, many companies used those iconic looks in advertisements and unofficial campaigns. This time, the team wants to keep the branding rights strictly under their control to avoid such exploitation.

The protection covers everything from character styling to digital recreations. The team is particularly worried about AI-generated content and fake ads using the actor's likeness. Interestingly, Allu Arjun recently went to the Delhi High Court himself. He requested legal protection for his "personality rights," which includes his voice, face, and overall identity. He wants to ensure that no one can use his image for commercial gain without his consent.

Directed by the hitmaker Atlee, Raaka is already one of the most talked-about movies in the country. By protecting these creative details, the producers are treating the film's choreography like a valuable invention. As the hype grows, the industry is watching how this legal shield will change the way movie stars and studios manage their famous brands.

Choreographer turns director for new crime thriller

The upcoming Kannada film Vicharane has reached a major milestone with the successful completion of its dubbing phase. Presented by S. Ramesh under the Yasha Films banner and produced by Bhagya, the project is now moving quickly toward its official release. The film marks a significant career shift for Akul, a well-known choreographer with nearly 200 movies to his credit, who has now stepped into the director's chair.

In this new venture, Akul has not only directed the film but also handled the story, screenplay, and dialogues. The plot is inspired by real-life events the director witnessed four years ago, giving the story a grounded yet commercial feel. The narrative follows a hopeful young man who moves to the city in search of a better life. However, he soon finds himself trapped in a web of urban struggles. The film unfolds as a gritty crime thriller, tracking his intense fight to overcome these dangerous hurdles.

The movie features Madenoor Manu, famous from the show Comedy Khiladigalu, who is taking on his second role as a leading man. Starring opposite him is Farheena, a talented theater artist from Mysore. The supporting cast includes Mahesh Siddu, playing a police officer, alongside veteran actors like Balrajawadi and Nagendra Arasu. With music by Manju Mahadeva and lyrics by Pramod Maravanthe, the film is packed with creative talent. The makers have confirmed that Vicharane will be submitted to the censor board very soon for final certification.

Major studio to ship Ram Charan film

The powerhouse production house Hombale Films, famous for global hits like KGF and Kantara, has announced a major move into international movie distribution. For its first big step abroad, the studio has partnered with "Mega Power Star" Ram Charan for his upcoming movie, Peddi. This marks a turning point for the banner as it seeks to bring local stories to a global stage.

Hombale Films has built a massive reputation for creating large-scale movies that appeal to people across different cultures and languages. By launching their own overseas distribution wing, they plan to take direct control of how their films reach fans in foreign countries. Industry experts believe this move will give Peddi a massive advantage, ensuring the movie gets a wide and powerful release in theaters worldwide.

The film is directed by Buchi Babu Sana and has already grabbed public attention with its gritty action and Ram Charan's dramatic physical transformation. Adding to the excitement is the fact that the soundtrack is composed by the legendary Oscar winner A.R. Rahman. The combination of a top-tier star, a hit-making studio, and world-class music has created a huge buzz in the film industry.

Director apologizes as financial issues stall Karuppu

The highly anticipated release of the movie Karuppu, starring Suriya, hit a major snag, leaving fans heartbroken. Due to old financial debts held by the producers, screenings were canceled across the region. This sudden halt sparked confusion at theaters as crowds were turned away.

In a deeply moving video that has now gone viral, the film's director, RJ Balaji, broke down in tears while addressing the situation. Clearly overwhelmed by the day's events, the filmmaker apologized to the public for the unexpected chaos. He looked visibly shaken as he spoke about the hard work put into the project and the pain of seeing its debut stalled by money issues.

"I am truly sorry. This should not have happened," Balaji said during his emotional message. He told fans that he never expected such a hurdle on release day.

VIJAY ACTS TO FIX JANA NAYAGAN HURDLES

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister and superstar Vijay has personally intervened to rescue his final film, Jana Nayagan, from a series of release nightmares. The massive ₹500 crore project has been stuck in limbo for months, facing strict censorship hurdles and a devastating online leak that shook the industry.

In a power move, Vijay reportedly summoned producer Venkat K. Narayana to return to Chennai immediately. The producer was attending the prestigious Cannes Film Festival in France but was asked to fly back to handle the film's final release steps. Vijay wants to ensure the movie, which is expected to be his last before he focuses entirely on his political duties, finally reaches his waiting fans.

The film, directed by H. Vinoth, missed its original board holiday release because the censor flagged its sensitive political themes. Officials worried the story might influence voters, leading to endless reviews and delays. Adding to the crisis, a high-quality version of the movie was stolen and leaked online in April. This act of piracy caused the film's digital value to crash, with streaming offers reportedly dropping by millions of dollars.

Despite these setbacks, the star-studded film featuring Bobby Deol and Pooja Hegde, is now back on track. With the Chief Minister himself taking charge of the situation, the industry expects the legal and technical issues to be cleared soon. For fans, this intervention is a huge relief, signaling that the "Thalapathy's" grand cinematic farewell will finally grace the big screen as planned.

Nolan explains Travis Scott's bold movie role

Famous director Christopher Nolan has finally shared why he chose rapper Travis Scott for a role in his new historical movie, The Odyssey. The decision had caused quite a stir among fans and experts, but Nolan believes the musician is the perfect fit to bring an ancient Greek tale to life.

Nolan explained that Scott was cast to play a "bard", a person who tells stories through song. The director sees a strong link between the ancient tradition of oral poetry and modern rap music. He wanted to show that the story of Odysseus was originally passed down by voice for generations, much like how rappers tell stories. Nolan told reporters that Scott's musical background helps bridge the gap between the past and the present.

In a recent trailer, Scott is seen telling the dramatic story of the Trojan War to a character played by Tom Holland. While this is Scott's first time acting for Nolan, the two worked together before on the music for the movie Tenet. Nolan has always praised the rapper's deep understanding of how music and storytelling work together.

The film features a massive cast of stars, including Matt Damon, Anne Hathaway, and Zendaya.

Madonna, Shakira and BTS headline FIFA final

In a historic move, FIFA announced that music legends Madonna, Shakira, and BTS will headline the first-ever halftime show during a World Cup Final. This Super Bowl-style concert will take place on July 19 at MetLife Stadium. While the tournament usually features opening and closing ceremonies, this marks the first time a massive musical act will perform during the final match's break.

The announcement came through a fun video featuring Chris Martin of Coldplay, who is helping curate the event alongside characters from Sesame Street. The show is expected to last 11 minutes and aims to celebrate global unity. More importantly, the event serves a higher purpose being, it aims to raise $100 million for the FIFA Global Citizen Education Fund to help children access schools and sports worldwide.

The lineup brings together three generations of pop power. Madonna is expected to showcase visuals from her upcoming July album, Confessions II. Shakira, a veteran of football music since her 2010 hit "Waka Waka," will likely debut her new song featuring Burna Boy. For BTS, this is their biggest stage since reuniting after military service and topping the charts with their latest album, ARIRANG.

This bold move follows FIFA's recent trend of blending top-tier entertainment with sports. With Katy Perry and others set for the opening ceremonies across North America, the 2026 World Cup is shaping up to be the biggest entertainment spectacle in history. Expect fans to be as focused on the stage as they are on the field.

Golmaal 5 officially underway after viral teaser

Director Rohit Shetty has sparked a wave of nostalgia by celebrating the 20th anniversary of his hit comedy, Golmaal: Fun Unlimited. To mark the occasion, the filmmaker shared a viral video recreating one of the most famous scenes from the 2006 classic. The clip features original stars Arshad Warsi and Sharman Joshi bringing back the chaotic energy that first made audiences fall in love with the franchise.

The recreated footage mirrors the legendary car chase where Arshad's character, Madhav, and a disguised Sharman Joshi speed through the streets. By blending the original shots with new 2026 visuals, Shetty took fans on a trip down memory lane. The director's post included a promising caption "We promise you'll relive those happy days very soon... filming in progress." This confirms that the long-awaited fifth installment is officially on the way.

Since its release two decades ago, Golmaal has become a staple of Indian pop culture, known for its quirky humor and unforgettable characters like "Vasooli Bhai." Actor Arshad Warsi joined in the celebration, noting that despite the years, the spirit of the film remains unchanged.

While many details about the new movie are still secret, Shetty recently revealed a massive surprise, superstar Akshay Kumar will join the regular cast for this next chapter. With the original team reunited and new faces joining the madness, fans are eagerly waiting to return to the world of laughter that started twenty years ago.
